Niigata City Board of Education

Elementary & Junior High Schools in Japan

Non-Japanese children are welcome to enroll in public elementary and junior high schools if they so desire. They are guaranteed to receive the same standard of education as Japanese students, free of charge.

All children may enroll, regardless of ability to read, write or speak Japanese.

* Enrollment Period for Elementary & Junior High Schools

In Japan, students may enter elementary school (shougakko 小学校) the first April after turning 6 years old. Elementary school lasts 6 years. After graduating from elementary school, students enter junior high school (chuugakko 中学校), which lasts 3 years.

* Tuition & Textbooks

There is no tuition fee for public elementary and junior high schools.

Textbooks used in public elementary and junior high schools are also distributed free of charge. However, you will have to pay fees for school lunches and school supplies every month.

* Financial Assistance

Niigata City subsidizes a portion of the expenses for school supplies and school lunches for elementary and junior high students in financial need. Please discuss this with school administrators after enrolling if you wish to receive such subsidies.

* School Subjects

The elementary school curriculum is comprised of Japanese (kokugo 国語), social studies (shakai 社会), arithmetic (sansu 算数), science (rika 理科), life studies (seikatsu 生活), music (ongaku 音楽), arts & crafts (zuga kousaku 図画工作), home economics (katei 家庭), and physical education (taiiku 体育). Other subjects such as moral education (doutoku 道徳), foreign language activities (gaikokugo katsudou 外国語活動 [usually English]), special activities, and integrated studies are also part of the curriculum.

The junior high school curriculum consists of Japanese, social studies, mathematics (suugaku 数学), science, music, art (bijutsu 美術), health & physical education (hoken taiiku 保健体育), technical arts & home economics (gijutsu katei 技術・家庭), and foreign languages (usually English). The curriculum also includes moral education, special activities, and integrated studies.

* PTA Activities

Schools also have parent-teacher associations (PTA) where guardians and school faculty work together to plan activities such as ensuring safe transportation to and from school. PTA boards welcome the active participation of parents and guardians.
